Appointment to Principal

I congratulate Deputy Principal – Mr Anthony Banks on his appointment to the Principalship of St Joseph’s College in Mildura. Anthony joined St Peter’s in 2009 and took on the role of Deputy Principal in charge of Students in 2010. He has worked diligently in the implementation of our new House System over the last few years and provided great pastoral care for our students in that time. Our loss is certainly their gain and I wish him well on behalf of our community and thank him for his fine contribution which has made our school a better one. Anthony will take up his new role in January 2014 and as a result an advertisement has been placed in the Age newspaper on Saturday the 7th of September calling for applicants for the role of Head of Campus - Cranbourne West.

Parent Teacher Interviews

As we come to the end of term 3, Parent Teacher Interviews which take place this Thursday, will provide an opportunity for students and parents to receive some detailed feedback from their teachers. In particular I encourage our Year 12 students, who are moving into their last 4 weeks of school, to speak in depth with their teachers as they plan their approach to study week and final exams.

Winter/Summer Uniform Changeover

Families please note that the changeover from Winter to Summer Uniform takes place at the start of Term Four. There will be a few “warm” days for the remainder of this term, however, all students are required to wear the Winter Uniform for the remainder of the term.

I would like to make particular note of the requirement for the length of girls dresses to be at least at the knee.

Could I also encourage parents/guardians to do a check of blazers over the holidays and ensure they are clean and ready to be worn for the start of Term Four.

Depression Proofing your kids

Andrew Fuller

About 20% of people experience depression at some time in their lives. That means that almost every family has someone with some times of depression.

Unfortunately once someone has experienced depression, they are at far greater risk of feeling that way again.

While I can’t guarantee that we can protect everyone from depression, there are things that we can do to make it less likely.

Sadness is not always bad

Everyone loves being happy but being sad at times is not such a bad thing. Sadness gives us time for thinking things over, sometimes regretting things we have done and helps us to resolve to be better people. Feelings of sadness, disappointment and set backs are part of human lives and without them we don’t live whole lives.

We all want our kids to be happy but know that there will be times they will be sad. Helping young people to know that they won’t be happy all the time is important. Realising that all feelings pass and that we can learn from the whole range of feelings, sadness included, is part of being human.

Lower the amount of stress

Try to identify some of the major sources of stress in your life and develop systems to deal with them. If you can’t avoid the stressful situations at least develop a de-compression strategy. This is a way of winding ourselves down after being revved up. Going for a walk, doing some exercise and being active are some of the best ways.

Find some good friends

Friends are a treasure. Along with family, having a few good friends that we can talk things over with enriches our lives and protects us in difficult times.

Eat healthily

What we eat changes our moods. For example, countries that eat low levels of fish have higher levels of depression. Fish contains a fatty acid known as EPA, which is lacking in those with depression. Fatty acids are also found in flaxseed, walnuts and chia seeds and are good fats. These are the good fats so if you are hesitant about eating them don’t be. Whole grain oats have been shown to help with depression as they have folic acid and B vitamins and helps with a slow release of energy versus the crash and burn of blood sugar levels that can happen. Foods high in selenium which is found in meat, fish and cereal grains has also been shown to decrease symptoms of depression. Leafy greens have magnesium in them which helps with depression and helps with sleep patterns.

Have some sources of “Flow”
We experience “flow” when we get involved in an activity that captivates us. At the end of these types of activities people often think, “Where did the time go?” There are many sources of flow – computer games, sports, drawing, dancing, reading, swimming and surfing are some. These are the things that you do that absorb you and take you away from your day to day cares and worries.

Losing yourself in a few pleasurable activities that challenge you is highly protective against depression.

Belong to the karma club
Decide to increase good will in the world by doing something positive for someone else. Try this out for one week. Pick someone you know and try to “knock their socks off” as much as possible. Give them compliments, greet them exuberantly and take time to be with them. You’ll be amazed at how much benefit you get from increasing someone else’s happiness.

Be grateful and lucky
Even people who have had rotten things happen to them can rise above them. They usually do this by deciding to be lucky. While we can focus on the things that have upset us, most of us have many things and people to be grateful for. Focusing on that part of your life and deciding that you are lucky makes an enormous difference to your life.

Get enough sleep and rest
Getting enough sleep is one of the most powerful ways we can protect ourselves against depression. The structures in the brain that support the most powerful anti-depressant, serotonin, are built and re-built between the sixth and the eighth hour of sleep. Over 60% of people who sleep 5 or less hours a night end up obese and depressed.

If you are having difficulty sleeping:
* decrease caffeine consumption late in the day
* decrease sugar in your diet
* go to bed at the same time every day and wakeup at the same time every day.
* avoid late nights
* avoid naps especially after 4pm
* avoid spicy, sugary or heavy foods before bedtime

* have the room at a comfortable temperature (some kids want to heat up the room and sweat the night away)
* block out distracting noise
* don’t sit in bed while studying get in the habit of reserving it for sleep
* warm milk before bed is good as it is high in tryptophan, which aids sleep.
* try relaxation methods before sleeping
* write out a to-do list for the next day before getting into bed.
* have a pre-sleep ritual e.g. reading or warm bath
* switch off the electronics especially phones

Get some exercise
Exercise decreases stress hormones such as cortisol and increases endorphins (happy chemicals). Exercise also helps release dopamine, adrenaline and serotonin, which work together to make you feel good. Endorphins are a hormone like substance, produced in the brain and function as the body’s natural painkillers. During exercise endorphins can leave you in a state of euphoria with a sense of wellbeing.

The most effective type of exercise for the release of endorphins is cardiovascular exercise and aerobics.

Moderate exercise for 10 minutes a day is enough to improve your mood and increase energy but it is suggested that you do 30 minutes per day.

Laugh more.
Laughter raises our levels of serotonin and dopamine. Make a point of watching TV shows or movies that make you laugh. Share funny stories and jokes with friends. People report that laughing even when they don’t feel happy improves their mood and sense of well-being.

Checklist of Signs: When should I worry?
In the childhood and teenage years depression can be harder to pick because it is obscured by heightened emotions and times of grumpiness.

Some signs of depression are:
- Loss of interest in usual activities - their get up and go, has got up & gone
- Increased use of drugs and alcohol
- Sleep problems
- Changes in energy levels –either sluggish or agitated and restless
- Changes in eating patterns change - either disinterested in food or over eating
- Speaking about death and hopelessness
- Increased and inexplicable irritability.
- Your own feelings of anxiety about your child.

It is worth getting some help if your child or adolescent is appearing to be depressed. One way to do this to say, “I’m worried about you and I want you to come with me to see someone so that I can work out whether I should be worried or not”. Try to find a good local psychologist, psychiatrist or doctor who can relate to young people.

CRANBOURNE EAST NEWS

Stage Two Building Opening

Last Tuesday we had perfect weather to create a perfect atmosphere for the opening of one of the best, if not the best educational facility/building that I’ve been involved with or had the fortune to work in. All of the invited guests were amazed with both the students and building, including our guest of honour - Sr Rosemary Graham RSM, whom the building is named after. Sr Rosemary was the Foundation Principal of St Agatha’s Primary School and is still actively involved in Catholic education at St Joseph’s in Mildura. To all of the staff and students involved in the preparation, setting up, blessing and opening and packing up – a big thank you for making it such a memorable occasion.

Parent/Teacher Interviews

Tomorrow we will be conducting our Term 3 Parent/Teacher Interviews from 9.00am – 8.30pm. All interviews will take place in the Lyons Building, with the majority of interviews taking place upstairs. Parents are reminded that there will be no classes held tomorrow because of the interviews.

Building Works

Drier weather has enabled the landscaper to make significant progress in completing works associated with Stage Two. It is expected that the landscaping will be completed by the end of the term. The seeding of the oval has not taken off as well as expected by the contractor. He is monitoring it closely to see if additional work is needed to be done.

The design work for Stage Three is nearing completion and we expected to progress to the next stage of developing working drawings and tender documents. It is planned to commence building early in 2014 so that it is ready for 2015 and will include Visual Arts and Technology facilities.

ST AGATHA’S REPRESENTATIVE

RELIGIOUS EDUCATION NEWS

By the time this Newsletter is published we will have either a new or recycled Government. The policies and attitudes of Governments have quite an impact on society. The impact we as parents have is however, much more telling when it comes to our family, our children. The readings for the masses this weekend are spot on for an election. We tend to give great importance to things which in reality are at best only a little important. In the first reading from the Book of Wisdom (9:13-15) for instance tell us “….Who can know God’s counsel, or who can conceive what the Lord intends? For the deliberations of mortals are timid and unsure are our plans.”

When we make plans, do we include God in them? Or consult God about them? Our children notice how we operate and although they grow to be their own person, they will bring with them what they learn from us. If it seems that we don’t include God in our plans, it raises a question. The question is, where our hearts really are and how much of our inner selves we are giving to God. Just where IS God in our lives? How important is God in our lives?

There are very many voices in our world attempting to tell us what is important and what is not. Many of them tell us to set God aside and live in freedom. This freedom of course is an illusion because we become slaves to fads, behaviours, fashions etc. We spend all our time trying to achieve “The Look!” if we achieve it, who are we then?

As parents, or even as older brothers or sisters, we have an obligation to consider how others see us and what example we may give. If we want to be seen as a person who values a relationship with Jesus, a person who wants to live a Christian life, Jesus tells us that we must let go of everything that gets in the way of that. It is necessary to judge between what is merely superficial and what is of substance. This Sunday the Gospel (Lk 14:25-33) challenges us to see things in context and to place things in proper perspective.

Young people need to hear a life giving alternative voice to the noise of the media and what is offered on video clips etc. We all have the opportunity to be that voice.

Prayer for Wisdom

Dear Jesus, give us we pray the gift of Wisdom that we may see the happiness that comes from following your teachings. Teach us Lord to value the knowledge that comes as a gift of your Holy Spirit. We pray that we may see and judge the things of this world through your eyes and learn to love and value the things which nourish our Spirit.

Through Christ Our Lord. Amen
